How to Find the Strength You Didn't Know You Had

How can you break through unwanted cycles to find the strength you didn't even know you had?

The universe tends to throw challenges our way. But what if we created our own challenges? The universe just might find it impossible to send us its challenges if we're busy creating our own!

I know that anytime I've had a breakthrough in life (and this has been one of my biggest success secrets), it was because I did something I just didn't think I could do in a million years. I did something that seemed impossible.

In this episode, we'll talk about how to get one blessing after another snowballing in your life, simply by moving into your own most natural energy so that you can do the impossible.

3 Takeaways

- Doing something "impossible" often brings about the biggest breakthroughs
- Getting out of your own head (out of ego-thinking) invites in your most natural energies
- Excellence in one area of life can often be applied in other areas of life

Assignment:

1. In what area of life are you truly excellent? You'll find a strength there, and with that one special strength you can weather any storm, or fulfill any vision.
2. How can you use this one special strength to break out of any unwanted cycles?

Biggest Mistake to Avoid

Allowing the universe to challenge us through it's own crazy tests, instead of just creating OUR OWN challenges.
